

Count with Hindu Gods

By Vaibhavi Bhatt

1

One is the great Om,
The only God there is.
All others you may know of,
Are different looks of His.

2

Two strong arms of Hanuman,
The fearless god of strength.
So strong even as a kid,
Almost had son for a snack.

3

Three eyes of Shiva,
The destroyer on his bull.
His angry dance of Tandava,
And the gaze of fire are so cool.

4

Four heads of Brahma,
The creator of this universe.
He loves the books of Vedas,
Can read all four at once.

5

Five headed snake of Vishnu,
The protector of this world.
In his grip is the loudest conch,
You've ever heard.

6

Six swans of Saraswati,
The goddess of talent and wisdom.
With music of her veena,
You're sure to sway to her rhythm.

7

Seven rainbow horses of Surya,
The sun god who's ablaze.
He brings good luck to everyone,
With his warm and radiant rays.

8

Eight arms of Durga,
The goddess of power so bright,
Monsters tremble at her name,
Filled with fear and fright.

9

Nine magical arrows of Rama,
The god so kind and brave.
He would never tell a lie,
Always well-behaved.

10

Ten sweet laddoos for Ganesha,
The smartest of them all.
Offer him treats with love and see,
He'll solve your problems all.
